DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-44 are drawn to a method for and a corresponding system of allocating IPO securities by an issuer based upon the purchases made by a customer from the issuer.
 - II. Claims 45-48 are drawn to a reward system of rewarding a customer by use of a right of at least one customer of an issuer to participate in public offering of the issuer.
 - III. Claims 49-52 are drawn to a method of allocating IPO shares by comparing the customer's data stored in a database with at least one pre published allocation formula.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, invention II recites a system having the features of (1) right of a customer which is conditioned on the customer assisting the market expansion of the issuer in a formative stage by making purchases from the issuer and (2) at least one published criteria for the customer having a relationship with the issuer. The process of invention I, on the other hand, can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus, one which does not define or utilize a right of a customer and the published criteria is independent of such a right of the customer.

3. Inventions III and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, invention II recites a system having the features of (1) right of a customer which is conditioned on the customer assisting the market expansion of the issuer in a formative stage by making purchases from the issuer and (2) at least one published criteria for the customer having a relationship with the issuer. The process of invention III, on the other hand, can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus, one which does not define or utilize a right of a customer and the published criteria is independent of such a right of the customer.

4. Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination I has separate utility such as allocating a portion of an IPO securities to a customer based on the purchases made by the customer from the issuer of the securities, whereas, subcombination III has separate utility such as allocating securities based quantifying market penetration assistance provided by a customer and comparing with at least one pre-established allocation formula . See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Art Unit: 3624

5. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. A telephone call was made to Att. Richard E. Kutz, II (Reg. 33,936) on 5/31/06 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
